

Joe McCarthy Taken by Death at Age of 47

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funeral services for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, probably the most controversial political figure to emerge in America in the last decade, will be held in the U.S. Senate Monday.

Plans were set up today for services in the Senate chamber where the Wisconsin lawmaker with the grinding voice was finally condemned by his own colleagues for some of the methods he used to prosecute his charges of Red infiltration of the government.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A turbulent chapter in American history has closed with the death of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin — admired by some as an anti-Communist patriot, but denounced by others as a witch-hunter.

McCarthy died late yesterday of an acute liver inflammation five days after he entered the naval hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md. He was 47.

The Wisconsin Republican's death reduces to 46 the number of GOP senators. There are 47 in the House.

For a time in the early 1950s, McCarthy was a dominant figure whose searches for Communists in government and elsewhere aroused bitter controversy. His influence was felt far and wide.

Three years ago, he reached his peak in a battle with the Army, which he charged was trying to hinder his hunt for subversives. The Army accused McCarthy of browbeating some of its officers called before his Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Millions of Americans sat in on the ensuing Senate investigation of the Army-McCarthy row, through the medium of television and radio.

Growing out of that investigation was a Senate probe of his conduct and a censure vote against him. That was the beginning of his eclipse.

By the time of his death, he had become just another senator. In his heyday, McCarthy tangled with other senators and two presidents — Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

But yesterday these old feuds went unmentioned as erstwhile foes and friends alike voiced regret at his death and praised him as a "fighting patriot," a courageous fighter, a man of strong convictions, a fine fellow.

Jury Seeks Source of News Story

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — William W. Hughes, a reporter for the Arkansas Gazette, appeared before the Pulaski County Grand Jury today for the second time this week.

The jury apparently is looking into the source of a news story Hughes wrote a week ago that an investigation would be made of alleged contributions of tax money to the Arkansas County Judges Association.

Truman Declares Like Driving Him to Socialism

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman declared today the Eisenhower administration is driving him toward socialism with policies he said are raising interest rates to hone owners and forcing the little fellow out of business.

"I'm not a Socialist," Truman said, but they're driving me that way.

Speaking in his old give-em-hell style to the Electric Consumers Information Committee, the former chief executive said the most dangerous thing facing the country today is what he termed an administration objective to "turn the 18 billion or 20 billion dollars of the taxpayers money that developed the atomic energy program over to private ownership."

When the atom is developed fully, Truman said, it can be the source of all the world's power and bring about the development of great desert areas.

"But," he went on, "if it is developed like the secretary of the Treasury has controlled money they will choke it to death and half the people will starve."

"You ought not to get me started on it. I'm all steamed up."

Truman had some prepared remarks for the committee, an organization set up by labor and farm groups and electric cooperatives fighting for public power development. But he tossed most of them away.

Switching momentarily to foreign affairs, the former President said he has a 36 or 40 inch globe in his office, which modern transportation and communication have shrunk to the size of an orange.

Truman said he keeps the globe turned so would trouble spots are on view.

"I like to look at them," he said, "and wonder what the hell's going to happen next."

Turning to Land O'Pens, former chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Truman remarked that "they put him off (out of commission) because they knew where he stood."

"When commissions are padded with people who have only one viewpoint," Truman said, "then we're on the road to 1929. And I'm not a prophet of doom."

Switching his fire to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Truman said Humphrey "wants to choke us to death with interest rates."

The raising of interest rates, Truman commented, "is just an effort to put labor in its place. Well, labor's place is in the sun."

Beck Indicted on Two Counts of Tax Evasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Beck, Teamsters Union boss indicated for income tax evasion, today posted $5,000 bond pending arraignment May 13.

Beck went voluntarily to the U.S. marshal's office for a technical surrender under a warrant telegraphed from Tacoma, Wash., where a federal grand jury returned the indictment yesterday accusing him of failing to pay $56,420 in taxes due on 1950 income.

He was taken to a basement cell block in the U.S. Court House and fingerprinted in the usual routine. The officers then took him before U.S. Dist. Judge Edward M. Curran for a decision as to bond.

Curran set the amount in a bench conference with Gerard Treanor, an attorney for the Teamsters Union.

Beck stood by — in tan suit and dark glasses — without saying a word.

Once Curran decided on the amount of bond, Beck had a wait of about 45 minutes until someone brought in a cashier's check to complete the bond posting.

Curran ordered Beck to appear before a U.S. commissioner on May 13 either here in Washington or at Tacoma.

Treanor told newsmen that if Beck appears before the commissioner here on May 13 he will waive a removal hearing and show up for arraignment at Tacoma at a later date.

Beck, while waiting to make bond, was asked if he had any comment on his indictment.

"I wouldn't say one word about it because I don't know more about it than you do now," Beck said. "I'd have to consult with my attorneys."

In Curran's courtroom, Beck had to wait about a half hour while a dozen other cases were pleaded routinely. He shook his head impatiently several times at the delay.

The first count accused him of failing to pay $56,420 in taxes on $88,828 of unreported 1950 income. It says Beck and his wife declared a taxable income of $40,398 and paid $15,540 that year. Instead, it said, they should have paid $71,960 on $135,226 income.

Rules Fired Woman Entitled to Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Judge J. Mitchell Cockrill ruled yesterday that Dr. Frances E. Brenecke is entitled to approximately $6,000 as full pay from the time she was dismissed as head of the state Welfare Department's Crippled Children's Division until her discharge was upheld by the state Warrent System Council.

Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams fired Dr. Brenecke on March 20, 1956. The Warrent System Council made its finding on Oct. 19, 1956.

Dr. Brenecke is seeking to have Cockrill void the dismissal. After hearing attorneys' arguments, Cockrill directed the filing of proposed "findings of facts" by both sides and reserved a decision.

West Memphis Ends Daily Publication

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (UP) — The West Memphis Daily Star suspended daily publication with its today's issue. Editor-publisher Robert Chowning blamed increased production costs for the move.

Chowning said he will try to arrange publication of the paper on a semi-weekly schedule. If that fails, the paper will close out completely. The paper is printed at Memphis.

Trucks Collide, Woman Injured

About 7 a. m. today two trucks collided at Third and Hervey resulting in injury to one person and heavy damage to both vehicles, City Police reported.

The trucks were driven by Leo Powell and John H. Webb, local men. Mrs. John Webb suffered bruised knees and cuts on three fingers. Mrs. Ralph Webb, an expectant mother enroute to the hospital, fortunately was not injured, officers said.

Worst Flood Hits Wichita Falls, Texas

DALLAS (AP) — The city of Wichita Falls geared today for possible torrential downpours sent rivers and creeks surging to perilous heights.

Another deluge of heavy rains late yesterday soaked water-logged north central Texas and areas along the swollen Sabine River in the southeastern part of the state.

Flash floods inundated streets in downtown Wichita Falls, a city of 125,000 near the Oklahoma border.

The lower Sabine continued to menace Deweyville.

The rains began tapering off early today, but the Wichita River and Holiday Creek running through the city on opposite sides of town were rising steadily from the runoff.

Streams in other areas were receding, however, after 2 1/2 weeks of heavy rains, tornadoes and hailstorms.

Red Cross emergency units were alerted and shelters were prepared at Wichita Falls while officials watched the Wichita rise at the rate of five inches an hour. Some 500 persons had to be evacuated when a flood hit the city in 1950 and conditions were reported similar this time, but no one has had to leave their homes yet.

Cliff Clines, city editor of the Wichita Falls Record-News, estimated at the present rate of rise, any flooding would come sometime today. The Wichita stood at 15 feet, three feet below flood stage.

About 25 miles southeast of the city, the Little Wichita River swirled out of its banks, flooding farmland and pastures around Henrietta and Scotland, Tex. There was no immediate threat to homes and no evacuation.

Dulles Asks End to German Division

By ARTHUR GAYSHON
BONN, Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles called on Russia today to end the division of Germany "before its injustices become intolerable."

Dulles told the North Atlantic Council of Foreign Ministers the Soviet Union's protestations of peace "indeed ring hollow when they forcibly divide a great people."

He said that both on humanitarian and legal grounds the continued split of the country could be justified.

The American statesman spoke after West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano called upon the 15-nation alliance to support his government's demands for reunification quickly.

Brentano's statement was, in part, an effort to bolster Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's political stock for general elections coming up in September.

Von Brentano said the ministers of the leaders of the Federal German Republic are doing all they can to insure that the Red-ruled people of East Germany take no "impudent actions" which could only aggravate their misery and lead to terrorism.

"But there are situations in which the suffering," he said, "caused by oppression, and where the moral and material misery reach limits where reason no longer dictate action and where desperation and a just anger break out with the violence of a volcanic eruption."

The opposition Socialist are pressing Adenauer's Christian Democratic forces hard, contending that West German membership in NATO and Adenauer's plans to acquire nuclear arms are the chief obstacle to Soviet agreement in the reunification of West and East Germany. Adenauer very much wants a new Western proposal with which to counter the Socialist argument.

Whatever is decided at today's third session of the North Atlantic Council is likely to remain secret, for a time at least. Informants said the talks would be more fruitful outside the public forum.

Following their meeting yesterday, the ministers let it be known they are backing the United States in its efforts to block any further Soviet penetration of the Middle East.

Wisconsin to Elect a New Senator

By ARTHUR BYSTROM
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A special election that probably will be preceded by a wild scramble for the nominations appears to be in progress in Wisconsin for the seat of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, who died in Washington last night.

McCarthy had announced his candidacy for a third term in next year's election.

His death left a vacancy that can be filled only by a special election. State laws do not permit the governor to haul a successor. If an election is not called, the seat will be vacant until the 1958 general election.

Gov. Vernon Thomson, also a Republican, has declined to say whether he would call a special election, or, if it is called, to say when he would do so "in deference to the senator's family."

However it is the opinion of most close associates of the governor that he will call one, probably in early fall.

McCarthy's death leaves the door wide open for all contestants who previously did not commit themselves for or against his election.

Many Republicans were known to be opposed to some of his activities but there were few would comment publicly or run again him.

Gov. Thomson conceivably could be a candidate in a special election although it is doubtful. He is serving his first term.

Any special election would have to be preceded by a primary with Democrats and Republicans competing for their party nomination.

The Republican nominee would be favored to win in the general election because the state has not sent a Democrat to the U.S. Senate in the past 25 years.

Leading candidates is Walter J. Kohler, three times governor of the state, who said prior to McCarthy's illness that he was considering making the race in 1958.

Other possibilities are Glen R. Davis, a former representative who ran unsuccessfully for the GOP nomination against Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) last year, and Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles, 48, New Richmond, who has been very active in GOP work for many years.

Democrats talked about as the most likely candidates include State Senators Gaylord Nelson of Madison and Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee and William Proxmire, Madison, three-times-unsuccessful candidate for governor.

Ex-Head of American Legion Succumbs

RAYTOWN, Va. (AP) — Jerry LeMarr, about 60, past commander of the Arkansas Department of the American Legion, died at a hospital here today.

LeMarr, who operated an accounting service here, served as state legion commander in 1954 and was a former officer of the legion's 40 and 3.

His widow and a daughter survive. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Fugitive Give Up to Posse at Yellville

YELLVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A band of fugitives, sought for four days in connection with an attempted bank burglary in which a sheriff was wounded, silently surrendered to a posse early today.

Chris K. Daig, 24, of Denver, obeying shouts of the posse, walked from a house at the nearby Snow community with his hands up.

Later Prosecutor Dan Stephens of Clinton said Dart admitted shooting Marion County Sheriff Jack Beck when the latter frustrated the bank break-in. Dart was quoted as saying he was alone although officers had believed two, and possibly three, men were involved. Another man was arrested yesterday but Dart told Stephens the second man was not present.

No shots were fired as Dart, spotlighted in the glare of auto mobile lights, held out his hands for State Trooper Clarence Gipsen's handcuffs.

Police Seek Man Who Shot Costello

NEW YORK (AP) — A huge manhunt was on today for an unidentified thug who shot and slightly wounded gambler Frank Costello last night.

Sixty detectives and six superior officers were assigned to the case in an attempt to avert a possible outbreak of underworld warfare, was to apprehend the gunman before "friends" of Costello caught up with him.

Costello, sometimes called the "boss of the racketeers," was grazed in the scalp by a single bullet fired as he entered the lobby of his apartment house residence on Central Park West.

Apparently feeling that a second attempt might be made on Costello's life, police posted two detectives in the lobby of the building.

CAB Official Called on to Explain

By JOHN CADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), said today that Raymond Sawyer, a Civil Aeronautics Board official, "has a lot of explaining to do" despite his sworn denial that he leaked a major CAB decision.

Jackson is acting chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee trying to ferret out the source of any leaks from the CAB about the award of the New York-Miami route to Northeast Airlines or other CAB decisions.

Sawyer, associate director of the CAB's Bureau of Air Operations, testified yesterday after Laurence Henderson, a one-time Senate aide, named him as his possible source of word that the CAB decided secretly last Aug. 2 to award the route to Northeast.

Henderson first testified he had no inside information on the decision, but later swore that if he was mistaken in that recollection, Sawyer was "the only other possible source."

Nicaragua Claims Win in Border Fight

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Laure Somoza told a cheering throng last night a tiny Nicaraguan force had wrested the border town of Mocoron from a Honduran garrison five times its size.

As the crowd exulted, the President's brother, Gen. Anastasio Somoza Jr., shouted that the Nicaraguan flag is flying over the Indian settlement on Central America's Caribbean coast. The two countries have disputed the border for years.

Nicaraguan and Honduran accounts of the border dispute varied. Each country insisted that Mocoron was traditionally theirs.

A Nicaraguan national guard reportedly captured the town two weeks and Honduran troops took it back Wednesday.

In Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, the ruling military junta ordered a blackout on any dispatches about military operations except official announcements.

Saturday Is Buddy Poppy Day in Hope

Saturday, May 4, residents of Hope will again have the opportunity to purchase a "Buddy" Poppy from members of Ramsey-Cargile Post 541 and Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, according to Mrs. John Keck, president, and Henry Fenwick, Post commander.

This is an opportunity for local citizens to let their funds honor the dead by helping the living. Disabled veterans are paid for making the poppies which are replacements of the ones on the graves of the men who gave their lives in battle. The poppies that grow in France during World War I inspired Col. John McCrae's poem, "In Flanders Field."

The VFW National Home in Lansing, Mich., receives a substantial share of the Poppy proceeds and there is a Hope child in that home.

The proceeds also support the State and National VFW Rehabilitation program but the largest share stays with the local VFW to be used only for veterans relief.

Locally milk has been purchased for babies and the Auxiliary supports a monthly birthday party in a ward at Fort Roots Hospital. Fort Roots is noted for its forgotten men — forgotten by their own families because they are ashamed of their sons' brothers.

Old husbands who are mentally ill. Case after case could be told of where the Poppy fund is used.

This Saturday use your opportunity and proudly wear your "Buddy Poppy" so that you can "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

NEW YORK (AP) — Anthony T. Rossi who came here from Sicily in 1923 with nothing but a pocket full of dimes will sell in 1957 the juice from more oranges than there are people on earth.

How did he build a 25-million-dollar Florida citrus empire that will market the contents of some 3 billion oranges in a single year?

The big, ham-fisted, 56-year-old businessman — he once was a private chauffeur, looks like Jack Dempsey — summarized his fruitful career.

"We started this business with $20,000 and every bill knowledge. But all my life I like to grow. I try to do something bigger than I have done before," he said.

Then Rossi, a devout Baptist who neither smokes nor drinks and likes to open staff business meetings with a prayer, added in a voice curiously gentle for such a large man: "God has always guided me — told me what to do and when to do it. He has used me for his purpose."

Rossi, who stands 5 feet 3 and weighs 225, was one of 10 children of a physician in Messina, Sicily. As a boy he was imaginative and adventuresome, and often ran away from home — so often that his despairing father even took to tying him in bed.

"I was never a juvenile delinquent, just a young rascal, he recalled. But when he was 15 his mother, dying, said she hated to see her son go. That changed her son's eyesight."

"From that moment on I was a good boy," he said.

In 1923 he came here, self-confident.

McCarthy's Spirit Seemed Broken

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A liver disease killed Sen. McCarthy but what no medical report will say or show is whether his spirit was broken before he died. He showed every sign of it.

He died 29 months to the day after his fellow senators on Dec. 2, 1954, condemned him for his conduct. And in that time McCarthy who had made himself as a blazing figure.

Retreated more into silence and obscurity. By the time of his death he had become almost a body in the news and in the Senate, both of which he had dominated for four years. On the day of his condemnation this writer wrote: "The censure charges against him, summed up, come to this: The Senate has standards but he didn't lie up to them; and there is no excuse for being as rough as he was toward the Senate itself and toward individuals."

There is an old Greek theory to explain the tragedy of a man's life: that it is due to a defect in character he can never overcome and which inevitably leads him to his doom.

In McCarthy's case, his enemies might say it was arrogance, ruthlessness, or a desperate thirst for power, or even "crucifix" which was the word used against him by Joseph N. Welch, his lawyer antagonist in the Army-McCarthy hearings.

But one thing was indisputable: in the four years of what he called his search for Communists, he showed an amazing disregard for other people.

He seemed incapable of changing that even when he was in his own greatest peril, as he was when the Senate was considering censure charges against him — and the result was his undoing.

He had become like a man obsessed with the word he had hurled at so many people: "Communist." He finally used it obliquely — as he so often did — against others: against the Senate itself. It was his greatest misdebt but nearly broke, planning to stay only a short time.

"But I found living in the United States the most exciting thing a man could do. I drove a taxi, installed refrigerating equipment, sold produce, worked as a private chauffeur, farmed for a while, finally bought the second self-servicing grocery store opened here."

In 1941 he moved to Florida, for a while operated the largest restaurant in Miami Beach, then in 1947 entered the venturesome citrus field. He pioneered in shipping fish fruit sections — orange, pineapple, an grapefruit — to the metropolitan markets.

In 1954 he decided the market was ripe for chilled cantone change juice, gamble by buying a million dollars worth of refrigerated trucks.

Today his fleet of 150 trucks delivers citrus juice west to the Duquesne, north to Canada.

But his most daring idea was to cut costs by transporting bulk fruit juice to metropolitan areas by ship.

"When I first tried to borrow three million dollars for this project, it was told it was a crazy idea that would never work," he said.

But it did work. Humbly grateful for his success, in his adopted and Ross, has this to say about the United States:

"Our present prosperity is God's reward for using our power well. This country has been blessed as other great countries in the past — blessed. They fell. But this country responded to God's opportunities better than any previous country because it has used its strength to help the weaker nations rather than to exploit them."

"We will endure as long as we refrain from abusing our power."

Season of TV Reruns Is at Hand

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Now approaching summer, the season when we, the viewers, move into a world crowded with returned repeats. By casual count — it has to be casual for the plans of two of the three major networks are still in a state of flux in mind-changing — at least 33 popular shows from Sir Laurence Olivier to Sgt. Preston, from Rin-Tin-Tin to the Mickey Mouse Club, from This Is Your Life to You Bet Your Life, will serve up repetition of the past season's programs as entertainment.

Those of us who feel strongly that once is enough must rely on the season or so of the stalwarts to provide us with relief from the heat. These include the three top big-money quiz shows, a continuation of the Sullivan Allen ratings war, Meet the Press, I've Got a Secret, To Tell the Truth, What's My Line, Talent Scouts. For the latter-type entertainment there remains Studio One, NBC's Sunday night hourlong drama, and the 60-minute shows Wednesday night on both NBC and CBS.

Obviously there must be two schools of thought about summer television. E. Sullivan, for once, has been running a successful, highly rated show for years. And now, it appears, the brains of the Steve Allen show feel it unwise to give their hard-core viewers an opportunity to switch allegiance.

The old castle, Queen Wilhelmina, on Rich Mountain, near Mena, Arkansas was the state's first commercial tourist promotion.

The Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission, between February 18 and April 22, mailed 25,000 envelopes of literature in answer to inquiries about vacationing in Arkansas.

He was condemned because he had "abused" the Senate and, among other things, had said the committee which was investigating the censure charges had "imposed Communist methods" and its members were "attorneys in fact for the Communist party."

McCarthy kept his spirit up and his name in the papers briefly after the condemnation. He said the Senate had "disgraced itself." He said he would go on investigating Communists.

When he lost the chairmanship of the committee which had been his main instrument for investigating communism and making headlines — because the Democrats got control of the Senate in 1955 — McCarthy began attacking communism abroad.

He continued making statements, but even fewer of them. In 1956 and 1957, but they disappeared further and further into the back pages of the paper, when his name was used at all. There were less and less news in anything he had to say.

There was less and less interest in anything he had to say because, as the era called "McCarthyism" began to melt away and an almost hysterically divided nation returned to normalcy, he meant less and less to more and more people.

He was a discredited senator whose following melted away. When he did enter the Senate chamber these last two years, he was never a man the speaking public knew. He seemed almost a ghost, a man whose story had been finished in his own lifetime.

THE STORY: With assistance from Detective Rocca of the Italian police, Milo March begins his investigation of the probable murder of Anna Maria Pericolas by talking to her parents. They tell him little he does not already know.

CHAPTER XI

Ten minutes of driving brought us to the restaurant. Piero parked his Fiat and we went in. There was something about the immediate atmosphere that reminded me of the European restaurants I'd always liked. This one wasn't gingerbreaded up for the tourists. The walls were bare, as were the tables scattered around the room.

A stout lady cashier was perched on a high stool near the door. "She is here," Piero said. "You see? For an insurance magnate, she is on time."

He led the way across the room, I followed leisurely, examining the girl who waited alone at the table. She was a blonde, blue-eyed Italian, the type you don't see so often in the States. The American public had originally succumbed to the natural beauty of the Italian stars, but the American attention had made the newer stars succumb to Hollywood standards. They were all becoming as shaved, plucked, and artificial as if they were off the Hollywood assembly line.

"Signorina Blonda," Piero was saying, "may I present Signor March."

"Signor March," she said, making it sound as if it were an impassioned love plea. I couldn't help but wonder how many hours she had practiced doing that with words. But who could play at that game.

"Piero," I said reproachfully, "you did not tell me that I was about to meet the most beautiful woman in the world."

"I wished to have it burst on you unexpectedly," he murmured. The blonde tried to look modest.

"I understand, Signor March, that you are back of many American motion pictures," she said. That girl believed in getting right to the point.

"You might say that," I said, "although I'm not sure how far back."

She laughed as if I were the funniest man in the world. I barely stopped myself from looking around to see if George Gobel were sitting behind me.

"You are here on business?" "Yes," I said.

"Then," she said archly, "perhaps I can show you around Rome." It sounded to me more as if she was talking about herself than about Rome.

"I'd like that," I said. "As a matter of fact, there are some things I'd like especially to see. Perhaps you can help."

"I'd love to," she said.

"I'm interested in seeing some of the old estates around Rome," I said. "In fact, I'm told that there's a very interesting old estate south of Rome owned by — Baron Gambero; I believe. Perhaps, if I find the exact location, you might go with me one day."

"I can do better than that," she said. "I know Baron Gambero and I can arrange to take you there."

"Fine," I said.

"Are you looking for locations?" she asked.

"In a way," I said. I made an effort and remembered something else. "By the way, I'd rather that nothing was said about any connections I might have with pictures. You may say that I'm with an insurance company, but that's all."

"I understand," she said. Her tone indicated that we had just entered into a conspiracy.

Piero stepped into the conversation to indicate that a waiter was waiting patiently for us to give him diplomatic recognition. We ordered antipasto for all of us and a bottle of wine. When we finished the antipasto, we ordered steaks.

A slender, nervous little man in a gray suit hurried through the room with a long knife in his hand. Piero must have seen the speculative gleam in my eye, for he told me that this was Nino. The reason for the knife was that he cut all the steaks himself.

Piero had been right about one thing. The steak was charcoal broiled and one of the best I'd ever had. Each steak must have been more than two pounds and cooked to perfection.

Meanwhile we got the blonde off the subject of me and to talking about herself.

By the time we'd finished the steaks, the blonde and I were Gino and Nino to each other. Very chummy.

Beside our table, Piero and I stood up.

"May I present Signor March," the blonde said, "and Signor Rocca. Baron Gambero and Signor Balena."

We all said hello politely.

Man Found Shot, Dies in Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A 23-year-old Randolph County farmer who was found shot at his home near Imboden Tuesday died at a Little Rock hospital yesterday.

At Pochontas today, Coroner H. G. McNabb returned a verdict of suicide in the case of John A. Wells Jr.

Sheriff Don Reed of Randolph County said Wells was found shot in the forehead with a .22 caliber rifle a short time after a 15-year-old school girl reported he had tried to molest her.

An ambulance driver who was returning Wells' mother from a Little Rock hospital found the wounded man, Reed said.

The officer said the girl reported that the man jumped from behind a bush as she walked home from school. She said he hit her several times with a rock but she escaped.

The Rev. Christian Hild will show a film on the Holy Land entitled "Palestine As I Saw It," Sunday night at 7:30 at Hope Gospel Tabernacle.

The Rev. Hild spent two weeks in Palestine to do the filming. He will also give his picture lecture entitled "Bombs Over Bible Lands," which deals with the strife and unrest in Mediterranean countries there.

In natural color, the film runs about 60 minutes, according to Pastor W. C. Land, who added that the visiting minister will dress in the colorful costume of the Holy Land.

Red River Leaves Banks at Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Red River left its banks today at about 30 miles south of here, bringing a call for assistance from the Red River Parish sheriff's office.

Ed Holley of the sheriff's office said about 300 more men were needed to help prevent feared levee breaks.

About 200 families in the area, 10 miles north of Coushatta, were threatened, he said.

Sandbagging crews stopped levee trouble on the levee's west side yesterday, he said, but the east side along Highway 71 remained in danger.

The Army Engineers' district flood control office at New Orleans said it had not been informed of any danger points along the Red River, and that inspections earlier this week indicated no immediate threat to the levee system.

Col. William H. Lewis, district engineer, said there was no controlling levee at East Point and high water usually backed to high ground there, as in some other areas of the valley.

Lewis said the Corps of Engineers had been watching the situation closely, with field forces making active inspections. The Red River and other bayou waters swelled higher in the Shreveport area and spilled into northwestern areas of the city and nearby sections.

Farmers and cowboys have less eye trouble than people who work in offices. The eyes have less strain when looking at distant.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The supreme end and purpose of Christian teaching in church school and Sunday school is, or ought to be, the building up in the young of the knowledge of Jesus Christ as Savior and Master; to know Him in all the power of the Gospel, and to find in His teaching and example the true guide to life.

To this end it is obvious that much depends on the teacher; but I think it is not so obvious that much depends upon the lesson to be taught.

In general, it is assumed that any lesson from the Bible serves its purposes and the general practice has been to cover some sort of instruction in the whole Bible over several years.

In theory such an arrangement seems excellent, especially when the planning is under able churchmen and Biblical scholars. But one defect is that over long periods the lessons have little direct relation to the life and teaching of Jesus as found in the gospels and the New Testament.

There is a sense in which it is the conception of the Christian, though not the conception of the Jew, that everything in the Old Testament relates to Jesus, and a wise teacher can relate the whole Bible to Jesus and the Gospel.

The Gospel of John in its proglogue relates the creative power of the new life in Christ to the creative Word "In the beginning," and identifies that Word with the historic Jesus: "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory, the glory of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth." (John 1:15)

The chapters of Genesis have an importance in the New Testament as Abraham stands for the man of faith, the spiritual pioneer.

In the words of Jesus: "Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day; and he saw it, and was glad."

But many parts of the Old Testament from which Sunday school lessons are drawn have so little direct, or even indirect, relation to the story of the life of Jesus, that it seems to me that every such lesson should be supplemented by some direct teaching drawn from the Gospel story.

This does not mean to lessen the importance of Old Testament incidents and teaching. The Jewish scriptures of the Old Testament constitute a textbook of morality and instruction in righteousness incomparable in all literature.

Even in the example of evil and violence they enforce the warning, the stern warning, of early Hebrew moralists: "Be sure your sin will find you out" (Numbers 32:23).

Moreover, the passion to be right was never more forcibly manifested than in the nobility of Hebrew saints. Where in all the history of moral men is there anything finer than the voice of the Psalmist: "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, an deed me in the way everlasting."

And, if one wishes its New Testament exemplification it is in Paul, Jew and Christian, with his passionate purpose only to know and do the will of God. What a world this would be if all men were as zealous for righteousness as the Jewish Psalmist and the Christian Paul!

Man Admits to Two Sex Slayings

GARY, Ind., (AP) — A steelworker signed statement yesterday solved two sex killings. Police planned to question the young man about a third slaying that of a Gary school teacher in 1940.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Sander Singer said George Robert Brown, 25, signed a statement admitting he killed Mrs. Mildred Grigoris, 29-year-old East Gary beautician, and Lana Brock, a 16-year-old New Chicago, Ind., schoolgirl, in rape attempts.

Singer planned to question Brown about the slaying of Miss Mary Cheever, a Gary school teacher who was beaten to death in an alley near her home eight years ago. The case had been considered robbery, or possibly a revenge killing.

Chicago authorities also asked that Brown be questioned about 24. Her body was discovered Oct. 13, and Barbara, 15, whose nude frozen bodies were found northwest of Chicago Jan. 22.

Singer said Brown on Tuesday admitted the killing of Mrs. Grigoris a time he showed officers her grave, and admitted the two Brock killings yesterday. The two graves were a little more than a half a mile apart at opposite ends of an airport runway at nearby New Chicago.

'The King and Four Queens' Western With Sex Appeal

A western with sex appeal gallops into the Senguer theater Sunday. It is a delightful piece of screen entertainment called "The King and Four Queens." "The King," aptly enough is none other than Clark Gable. And his four "Queens" are: the lovely Eleanor Parker; sly-eyed, blonde Barbara Nichols; gentle, sweet Sara Shane; and Jean Willes, an exotic, dark-haired beauty. Ruling the roost over these four Queens, is the hard-bitten whip-handed Ma McDade, played by Jo Van Fleet, who will be best remembered for her Academy Award winning performance in "East of Eden."

This delightful story of passion on the plains was filmed in Cinemascope and De Luxe Color on location in Utah, and this reviewer says that for them that haven't enough pretty scenery with the young ladies prancing about, there's some mighty colorful, countryside caught by the Cinemascope cameras.

Margaret Fitts' story, which was adapted for the screen by her and Richard Alan Simmons, tells how three out of four of a gang of desperadoes are killed — and no one knows who the survivor is. The four widows await their man — and their fate when Clark Gable arrives with the facts.

He is besieged and beguiled by the four young ladies and is not averse to their attention. He loves them all and responds to them all, but the one who wins him (or thinks she does) is the sweet-talking, hot-tempered Sabina (Eleanor Parker).

Roan Walsh directed the United Artists release with accent on the sweetness but never losing sight of the fact that "The King and Four Queens" has a western setting and hence its share of gunplay as well as horseplay.

Alex North composed a splendid score for the Russ-Field-Gabeo Production, North, it will be remembered also composed the scores for "Streetcar Named Desire," "The Bad Seed" and "The Rose Tattoo."

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 18, a college student, and going with a girl of 14 who is quite mature for her age. We had many dates, but lately she won't see me. When I asked what was wrong, she said her mother objected to the difference in our ages; I spoke to her mother who said she had nothing else against me. I don't want to give the girl up. Should we date without parental permission?

P. C.: No. Sneak dating will set the girl's parents against you for good. The young lady is a bit young for dating, but if you show the proper, respectful spirit you can win her folks over to your side. Your attitude up to this point has been good; don't change it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Jackie and I have been going together for a month. He works near here, but lives in another state. He's 19 and not married — or at least that's what he says. Lately there's been a rumor around that he's married, but he denies it. He goes to church with me, is well liked by my family, and is respectfully considerate at all times. Do you think he's married? How can I find out?

CRICKET: Dear Cricket: The boy seems honest. Believe him until you have something besides rumors as basis for your doubts. Furthermore, a month's acquaintance doesn't give you the rights to question, investigate, or doubt. Jackie is a friend; accept him as such.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My friends say I have character, ability and personality, yet I am not satisfied with myself. I'm 28, happily married, and with a darling baby. I am never bored, lonely or dull. I love homemaking, am active in church work, share hobbies with my husband, carry on a large correspondence and enjoy company.

The trouble is I am never satisfied with my work. My parents were perfectionists. I must aim for the best in everything I undertake and if I fail in even a small detail, the whole doesn't satisfy me.

PAULINE: Dear Pauline: You are facing a tough situation. You lack the true perfectionist's conviction that everything she does is right, just because she does it, yet you haven't the courage to let go of the example set by your parents. I suggest that you work on the latter angle. The true perfectionist is impossible to live with and a general pain in the neck to everyone associated with her.

You must learn to meet people and situation on equal terms. You live in a city well supplied with schools; attend lectures on human relations. Let me know how you progress.

YOUTH SMASHES VATICAN SHOWCASE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A visitor to the Vatican's treasure rooms whipped a hammer from his pocket yesterday and smashed the glass of a cabinet containing two diamond-studded crowns.

While other visitors watched in amazement, Vatican guards moved in and subdued the youth in a brief tussle before he could reach the crowns. Vatican police identified him as Remo Presutti, 24, of Sulmona, Italy.

Authorities said it was not certain whether he was attempting

Leaders Glad to Help Ike Reduce Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders of both parties said today they will be glad to help President Eisenhower get a bigger tax reduction than in 1954 — by cutting his $71,800,000,000 spending budget.

Eisenhower told officers of the League of Women Voters yesterday that before he leaves office (in 1961) he would like to see a bigger tax reduction than the seven-billion-dollar cut of three years ago.

However, he stressed his belief in the need for heavy spending on defense and foreign aid "as long as there is abroad a predatory force seeking to destroy our form of government."

This was viewed as an indication of the tack he would take in any radio - television appeal for public support for his budget and program, including his embattled foreign aid proposals.

After a White House meeting of Republican congressional leaders and the President yesterday, newsmen were told there was a general concern among the group that Eisenhower should make such a public appeal.

Quicker later by newsmen, White House Press secretary to make off with the treasures or acted on an impulse. They said an investigation would be made before deciding whether to take action against him.

James C. Hagerly said such a move is under consideration, but that no final decision has been made. Hagerly said Eisenhower "feels a great deal of this representation" has been spread about this spending budget and that "he is going to point it out."

Today, Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said he doubts any such appeal will stop Congress from making "substantial" reductions in the budget.

"He certainly can't change my mind about cutting the budget," Bridges said, predicting Eisenhower's $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program will be cut by at least 1 1/2 billion dollars.

If this and similar economies are made, Bridges said, the way then will be open for some lowering of taxes.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said in a separate interview, "I'd like to see a tax cut any time."

"But I don't think anyone can tell whether it will be possible until we see what Congress does with the appropriations bills," he added.

THE BEST CROWD TO FOLLOW IS THE CROWD GOING TO CHURCH

There's No Evil There Except What You Carry With You

...how quickly tomorrow becomes today and today fades into yesterday. Yesterday this old stern wheeler was a part of today.

Like our plans and ambitions for tomorrow it drifted into yesterday. Brother, yesterday is too late ... we only have today. The gang planks will soon be raised, the lines cut and off we go into yesterday ... into eternity. Today you will say 'so-long' to souls you will not see tomorrow ... suddenly it's too late.

Now, even today is almost gone. How about stopping in at church next Sunday. Last Sunday is now too late. Jesus said "NOW is the accepted time."

"Don't let your today's and tomorrows turn into yesterdays. Unless the Lord gives you tomorrow you have none."

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Labor Commissioner Clarence Thornbrough says enforcement of a law which authorizes the Labor Department to remove doors on abandoned refrigerators and ice boxes will start next month. There have been cases of children being trapped in such places.

PARAGOULD (AP) — Carroll Henry, assistant coach at England High School, has accepted a similar position at Paragould High School. Henry is a native of Little Rock and attended State Teachers and the University of Arkansas.

BLITHEVILLE (AP) — The Arkansas Junior Chamber of Commerce's 4-day convention opened here today. About 400 delegates from throughout the state were expected.

CLARKSVILLE (AP) — Bill Ballard, director of student recruitment at The College of the Ozarks, has been appointed head basketball coach at the school. Ballard, a native of Ozark, also will serve as assistant baseball coach.

CARNIVAL

By Dick Turner

"I don't see how the government figures a tight money policy will head off depression! Henry tries it on me occasionally and I get terribly depressed!"

HIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"Surprise, folks! You won't have to sit and stare at TV tonight—we brought along a bridge deck!"
